CORAL: V.C.AGA,J.
DATED: 30-08-2004.

P.C.

1. After having gone through the office objections raised by the office, I find that appeals in question suffer from number of office objections. In some cases Vakalatnamas and in certain cases certified copies of the impugned judgments have not been filed. In some cases claim for purposes of jurisdiction and court fees has also not been stated. In some cases, synopsis are not filed.

2. In this view of the office objections, the office could not process these appeals, with the result, same are pending without any progress. In these circumstances, by way of last chance, 2 weeks time is granted in all these cases to the appellants to remove office objections, failing which appeals shall stand dismissed automatically without reference to the Court. In the event of dismissal or rejection of the appeals for non-removal of office objections, the same shall be deemed to have been dismissed with costs in the sum of Rs.500/- (five hundred) each to be deposited with High Court Legal Services Committee, in each case.
